ANTONY GORMLEY's Two Stones on the Serpentine Gallery's North Lawn

16 July - 14 September 1981 Press View Thursday 23 July 5-7pm

Collection of Stone One from Invernesshire

The Arts Council is giving a large, recently completed sculpture by Antony Gormley a temporary London home on the Serpentine Gallery's North Lawn for two months, from 16 July - 14 September, prior to its permanent siting in a new Kent park in Singleton Village, south of Ashford.

Two Stones is one of three sculptures commissioned for Singleton as a result of a competition organised in 1979 by Kent County Council and the South East Arts Association. The Arts Council contributed to the cost of the commission through its Art in Public Places scheme. In Singleton the sculpture will be sited beside a lake in the public park which forms the centre of the Village Development Scheme.
